Is Your Home Watertight?

While it may still feel like summer here in Central Texas, Autumn weather is just around the corner and it is never too early to make sure your home is watertight. Check out the most common household leaks below and see if any may be causing your water bills to rise:

- 1. Toilet Leaks: Toilet leaks are one of the most common household leaks, with experts estimating that 20-30% of all toilets have a flapper valve leak. To determine if you have a toilet leak, remove the tank lid. Place several drops of food coloring in the tank. If the color appears in the toilet bowl within 15 minutes, you definitely have a leak.
- 2. Shower Leaks: Shower hoses and heads are common leak offenders due to constant use and corrosion risk. A showerhead leaking 10 drops per minute wastes 500 gallons of water per year, but many of these problems can easily be fixed by a licensed plumber or even a handy homeowner.
- 3. Hose and Irrigation Leaks: A simple leak in any typical outdoor hose should be easy to identify visually, but what about within your irrigation system? Leaks in your sprinkler heads or underground drip lines are difficult to spot, you'll want to consult a professional to have your sprinkler system inspected and troubleshoot any problems before the winter comes.
- 4. Sink Leaks: A leaky sink can mean a link in the faucet, or even from the sink basin if there is a crack or hole leaking water under the sink. If the faucet is leaving, you'll see water in the sink basin and a plumber should check your faucet to see if it needs repair or replacement.
- 5. Leaky Water Heaters and Water Softeners: Hot water heaters and water softeners tend to develop leaks in the main tank after many years of service. Unfortunately the best course of action for either appliance is to replace it with a new unit. Smaller problems, like leaky valves, loose water line connections, or broken seals may be easily repairable and can extend the life of your unit.
